Unisa warns about the leaked examination paper

The University of South Africa (Unisa) is aware of examination question papers scheduled to be written during the May/June 2019 examination period have been compromised. The matter has been reported to the Commercial Crimes Investigation Unit, which will be embarking on an intensive investigation to establish where and how the examination question papers have been leaked. The university will also initiate a forensic audit of our processes in order to ensure that these are secure.

Students are encouraged not to participate in such fraudulent activities as any students who are identified as having participated may be referred to the Student Disciplinary Unit for investigation and disciplinary measures. Should a student be found guilty of contravening the Student Disciplinary Code their module/s will be cancelled and marks will be withdrawn.
